

THE SAINT
JOHN PAUL II
JOURNAL OF BIOETHICS

The Saint John Paul II Journal of Bioethics is published by the Saint John Paul II Bioethics Center located at Holy Apostles College & Seminary in Cromwell, Connecticut. Founded by Rev. Francis J. Lescoe, Msgr. David Q. Liptak, and Leo Duffy, M.D., the Center brought together the three disciplines of philosophy, theology, and medicine represented by the three founders in a search for answers to disquieting questions emerging from the development of technology and modern science. It was a direct response to the call of Pope John Paul the Great in 1979 to address the implications of humanity's accelerating mastery over creation, even as its progress in science eclipsed its grasp of the ethical and moral implications of its handiwork. The Journal is one fruit of their pioneering labors and its publication recalls the passage of John 4:37: "For here the saying is verified that 'One sows and another reaps.'"

THE SAINT JOHN PAUL II JOURNAL OF BIOETHICS
HOLY APOSTLES COLLEGE & SEMINARY
33 PROSPECT HILL ROAD
CROMWELL, CONNECTICUT 06416-2027

STAFF

Co-Editor: Reverend Deacon Thomas J. Davis, Jr., J.D., L.L.M., M.A.

Co-Editor: Dr. Cynthia Toolin-Wilson, Ph.D., S.T.L.

Assistant Editor: Andrew S. Kubick, M.A.